FREW & CAMPBELL

FRIDAY, FEB. 4, 1876.

WE shudder to think of Grimes ever getting another call. We hope that he will remain at Steubenville the balance of his days. Should he get another call. the newspaper vis momentum already acquired would probably become chronic, and his movements monopolize the entire editorial attention of the Steubenville ink-slingers for a year or two.

Ture balance of trade for the last calendar year, reckoning exports and imgold and including specie, is tound to be in our favor to the amount of $65,200,000. That is to say, we have exported this much more than we have imported. This is a little more than the net exportation of specie, so that our specie has gone abroad not to settle a ommercial balance, strictly speaking, but probably to pay interest on our for-eign-held obligations. Our net exportans of specie for some years have not risen to our annual production. The balance of trade of 1874 was almost precleely the same and on the same side. Imports and exports both continue to show great reductions, in money value: but by no means an equal reduction in bulk of merchandise. So great indeed has been the decline of price both at home and abroad that we are, to-day, buying and selling vastly more for the same amount of money than five years ago. Perhaps the bulk of our foreign trade is now as great as in 1872, when the money value of our imports was 20 per cent more than now. It has fallen off in iron wares and some goods in which native competition is the most active, but in groceries and other lines it has increased The following comparisons present for five years the imports of merchandise, the exports of merchandise and the net ex-ports of specie, all expressed in specie

In conferring with a number of the leading Republicans of this section, I find there is a universal expression in favor of holding the State and Congressional Conventions affan early day. Many. Three-ply ingrains, 84 yd...

Preasons are given for this expression. In the race for Congress in this district two years ago the nomination was put of until the last moment. The result was that after Gen. Goff went upon the stump he did not have time to thoroughly canvass the district. It is the general belief that if he had had two weeks more of time he would have influenced his election. The wisdom of delaying the nomination at that time on account of the unsaled of the content of the unsaled of the con tion. The wisdom of detaying the normation at that time on account of the unsettled party issues is not, however, seriously questioned. We can put ourselves upon the party issues of this campaign.

They are already well defined, and no matter who may be nominated for Press, per lb...

They are already well defined, and no matter who may be nominated for Press, per lb...

Solvent was an as false, at this early day. anatter who may be nominated for President, we can safely, at this early day, premise the points to be embodied in the platform that will be presented by the Tantonal Convention at Cincinnati. As to State and local affairs, we have abundant material on which to go into the light in the shape of the unprecedented bungling legislation by the party in power, and its corrupt administration of State affairs. And we want time to ventilate these things well. We want every man, woman and child in West a Virginia to thoroughly understand the situation, and with time to get the facts a before them, the tax-ridden people will certainly oust the bunglers, tricksters and ring swindlers from the control of the State which they have so shamefully misgoverned. per gal..... Coffee, per lb... Tea, per 1b..... Tin in blocks, pigs... The reduction of duties is, substantially, on silks, 20 per cent; on cottons, 25 to 30 per cent; on woolens, 30 per cent; on woole, 25 per cent; on iron and steel, 35 per cent. The taxes on coffee, tea, and the comprehend all the drugs and dyes, and comprehend all the drugs and dyes, and manufacturing articles. Among the notable things made free are quinine, castor-oil, and cod-liver oil, all of which have been heavily taxed without producing any revenue.

the State which they have so shamefully mis-governed.

It will require considerable time to go over the mountainous districts of this State. Only over the mountainous districts of this State. Only over the mountainous districts of this State. Only over either one of those States that it would not require one-half of the time to go over either one of those States that it would no go over West Virginia. The means of conveyance are limited to stage coaches in three-fourths of the counties, and this fact is a very important one to consider in making arrangements for the coming campaign. Put the beat men the State can afford on the ticke, at the earliest possible] day, and presenting the sesses of the day as they will bear presenting there need be no fears for the result. The freemen of this West Virginia have tried the Democratic party long enough to know that it means no good deeds for them, and they will not be slow to rebuke it.

Concerning the proper time for holding the Republican Convention there is some diversity of opinion. Some favor a time not later than in April, while others say that a convention is out of the question previous to the Cincinnati Convention. Those who urge a conventianin April, say that as to the matter of ratifying the acts of the National Convention, the State Convention can pledge itself in advance to endorse anything that may be done in Cincinnati. But on the whole I take it that if the State and Convention can be held within ten days after the National Convention, in the state Convention, in the state Convention, in the state Convention, in the state Convention, in the sail before the common pleas the delegates from their respective districts in stlendance on the State Convention, in her sait before the common pleas the delegates from their respective districts in stlendance on the State Convention, in her sait before the common pleas the delegates from their respective districts in stlendance on the State Convention, in her sait before the common pleas the convention can be held wi mis-governed.

It will require considerable time to go the mountainous districts of this tion, it will be entirely satisfactory, for that will give only a little over three months for the active campaign.

It is suggested that it be so arranged that the delegates from their respective districts in attendance on the State Convention shall select candidates for Convention in a very good one, and in accordance with the manner of proceeding in previous years.

These hints concerning the holding of the Bepublican Convention at an early day are thrown out in the earnest hope that they will be appreciated and acted upon at once.

The Proposed Tariff.

The new Tariff bill now before the Committee on Ways and Means of the House of Representatives is intended not only to reduce the rates of taxation on many lines of goods to a revenue standard, to make free a large class of goods which ought not to be taxed, and to provide an increase of revenue, but also to simplify the business of collecting the revenue by providing specific instead of ad calorem duties wherever that is possible. We have compiled with care a table showing the present rates of taxation with those proposed by the new bill.

The balance sheet of the Richland Building Association shows a net gain in two years of 24 6-10 per cent. A pretty good investment to its stockholders. Quite a number of saloon keepers are w boarding with Sheriff Cochran, and veral townships to hear from. Mr. James Burley, proprietor of Burley's Flouring Mills, had been busy since the other freshet repairing the break in his dam. The high waters of last week again tore out the repairs, and his labor is lost.

Rhod foreshadow hard times in their vicinity, February 1st, 1875. by reason of the fact that their creditor will be compelled to pay their indebtedness within six months, to do which will use many of them trouble, Mr. Deihl was orced to this action by the course of a number of his creditors who refused to number of his creditors who refused to enter into the compromise with him that others did, namely, to pay fifty cents on the dollar of his personal debts, and seventy cents of F. Deihl & Co.'s debts. Instead of doing this they issued executions and levied on his goods and advertised them for sale. To place all his creditors on an equal footing, he at once concluded upon bankruptcy. Mr. Deihl complains of the action of many of his creditors in entering into the agreement only tors in entering into the agreement only for the purpose of gaining time to make their claims in another way.
